EDITOR IN DISTRESS

Well, if you picked up a copy of Metro ANE last week you probably had a moment of deja vu when you noticed pretty much all the paper was the same as the previous week. If you read Metro online, then you read the correct issue. Yeah, there was a big screw up and the wrong pages were sent to press. Sorry. At least most of the ads were correct and so were the escort pages. I decided to rerun some of the articles, since they were only seen by the online viewers, but there is still plenty of new stuff for those who only read the magazine online.

Besides the magazine screw up, everything else is going pretty good. I went to two UFC events, UFC Fight 19 in OKC and UFC 103 in Dallas, and had lots of fun. Not sure I would do it again though. Ticket prices were high and paying for eight dollar beers really sucked. Then I got hungry and the cheapest thing to eat was a two dollar bag of chips.

I got to see my friends from Savannah, Georgia Kylesa play last Saturday at Rubber Gloves in Denton. They're good friends with Mastodon and if you like them then you should check out Kylesa for sure.

Sunday, I went to the Lucky 7 Cycles party and if you were there, I'm sure you had a blast. Free alcohol, free food, a rocking live set from Maleveller and lots of cool motorcycles to look at.

If you're interested in winning free tickets to Texas Frightmare Weekend 2010 then check out this news from Texas Frightmare Weekend:

"FREE Zombieland screening and a chance to win FREE passes to Texas Frightmare Weekend 2010! Participate in our Zombie Walk prior to the screening for your chance to take home one of three pairs of tickets to Texas Frightmare Weekend 2010."

The top three zombies at this Thursday's zombie walk and Zombieland screening will have a chance to win the following: First place wins 2 VIP Passes to Texas Frightmare Weekend 2010! Second Place: 2 General Admission Weekend Passes to TFW 2010. Third Place: 2 Friday Passes for TFW 2010

Admission is FREE but you must dress like a Zombie. To reserve your seats, RSVP by sending an email to zombielanddallas@gmail.com with the full name of each guest. You will receive a confirmation email with event details. We'll meet at the Blockbuster in front of the Studio Movie Grill on Royal Lane in Dallas at 6:45. The zombie walk starts at 7:15!"

Metro ANE contributor, OJ Tobias is performing this Wednesday, Sept. 30 at the Addison Improv Comedy Club on their open mic nite. Show starts around 7pm and OJ performs a little after 8pm. It's $10. Addison Improv is located at 4980 Beltline Road #250, Dallas. <http://www.improv2.com/addison> - Gil

Kanye Can Help Obama Pass Health Care Reform

I've figured out how President Obama can get health care reform passed. He must equate opposition to reform with support for Kanye West and John Gosselin. Never mind all of those facts and figures. They may work on a country that prioritizes their quality of life over the coverage of their pop culture, but that ain't us. Numbers make our heads hurt; gossip makes our world go 'round. Just look at this past week, when the Max Baucus health care reform bill was set to be released. The top trending topics on Twitter were all some form of the Kanye West/Taylor Swift dust up, with the exception of a happy birthday wish for one of the Jonas brothers. Public option, single payer...most people don't understand it, and don't listen when it is explained to them. What they do understand is each other's indignation over a guy leaving his wife when they have eight kids and running into the arms of a much younger woman. To them, that's the kind of stuff that really matters.

Last week, in a recorded conversation with a reporter that was supposed to be off the record, President Obama called Kanye West a "jackass" for interrupting Taylor Swift's acceptance speech at The MTV Video Music Awards. After months of getting no traction on being the first president to reform the health care industry in a way that many presidents of both political parties have failed to do, I thought that this comment was the beginning of turning the tide of apathy. You see, I have come to believe that people are mostly stupid, and that that is exactly the way they like it. The opponents of health care reform count on this sentiment to mount the resistance to change, because such change will turn them into socialists, and make them have abortions, and give illegal immigrants free abortions. They fall for it all because they are busy texting in votes to get their favorite American Idol contestant onto next week's episode in the only election that they are really motivated to vote in. With Obama's admonishment of West, he inadvertently went a long way toward winning over the support of those who might otherwise oppose him. They may not understand the importance of regulating the health care industry, but they sure don't want to be caught on the wrong side of the Kanye issue. What he did to that young girl was wrong, and if you agree with that, then both of you must be on the same side. Now the next step...

Barack Obama must appear at a town hall meeting, holding one of his daughters like a sack of potatoes, Sarah Palin style. From the podium, he must berate John Gosselin for abandoning Kate, while suggesting that Gosselin is exactly the type of guy who opposes health care reform. For that matter, neither does Kanye West. Who does want it? Glad you asked.

First lady Michelle Obama is already stumping for reform. Book her on Oprah, and allow Oprah to mobilize the stay at home troops. At that very moment, a surprise appearance from Kate Gosselin as the three women embrace seals the deal. No woman will want to be left out of this tea party, and no man will have the power to resist the lobby of his newly indoctrinated spouse.

Look, I know it's not a clean win. I pay Blue Cross over $300 a month for a two person catastrophic policy that covers next to nothing. I need a public option, and right now the only option that I can see comes by way of the general public having more disdain for a rapper and a reality TV star than they do for The President of The United States, if only for the fact that the pay more attention to the former than the latter.

A big THANKS to everyone who came out to my first KNON benefit last weekend at Lakewood Bar & Grill, and to Definitely Maybe, UrbanRenewal, CharlieMancini, and especially Austin's The Jungle Rockers, who traveled north to rock. It's been rare as of the past couple of years that a band captures me like The Jungle Rockers did... imagine the early Beatles in their Cavern days, before the matching suits and mop tops. Minimalistic, heavy-handed drum beats, dueling guitars with lots of air in between the sounds... hip-shakin', finger snappin', butt rockin' yumminess! I'll let you know when they are coming back, but for now you can check them out at www.myspace.com/thejunglerockers.

Urban Renewal will be playing three sets on the Chevy Mainstage at the State Fair of Texas on Tuesday, October 13th, with the first at 4 pm. If you haven't caught this Tower of Power/James Brown tribute act, this will be the perfect opportunity!

You can check out the video by going to their www.myspace.com/adrianandthesickness or search for it on youtube.com.

This Saturday, you will find me back at Lakewood Bar & Grill, 6340 Gaston Avenue in Dallas' beautiful Lakewood 'hood for the return of The Hickoids, The Loco Gringos, Dragna, and Charlie Mancini.

Brainticket/Metal Rising Records is pleased to announce the long awaited release of Texas Metal Archives, Vol. 1! This is an archive of the early to mid-80 fs Texas metal scene comprised of 60 minutes of unreleased underground speed/thrash/metal tracks, along with a 20 page booklet which includes band info and photos. Get yours at www.brainticket.com today!

This Friday night, head to O'Riley's, 8989 Forest Lane at Greenville Ave. for a heapin' helpin' of heaviness with A Jury of Robots, Scarlet Vermillion, Wo Fat, Dragna, and Rust in Peace (Megadeath tribute band). Show starts at 8 pm.

Adrian & The Sickness sent me a message on myspace with a link to their new video for their song, "Listening," co-written by The Go-Go's Kathy Valentine, who also produced their soon-to-be-released CD entitled BFD! The song and the video are freaking great, and I can't wait for them to send YRS4 her advance copy for review (hint...).

CHTHONIC

A very promising young metal band, Chthonic, from Taiwan is set to make their second appearance in Dallas, TX this weekend at The Door. They are touring with headliners Satyricon and two other openers Bleeding Through and Toxic Holocaust. They are touring in support of their awesome new album, Mirror of Retribution, which tells the story of a Taiwanese monk travel to hell to gather a powerful weapon against the invading Chinese army. This interview was done with their singer Freddy aka Left Face Of Maradou. -Gil Tha Thrill

Being a band from Taiwan why choose the greek word "Chthonic" for a band name instead of something Taiwanese? Are the lyrics in Taiwanese?

Yes, the lyrics are in Taiwanese. I like mythology very much and when we chose the name of the band, all the members agree the word, CHTHONIC, developed from Greek Mythology looks cool. So we picked it. Just like the American rap group called themselves Wu Tang Clan. It's the multi cultural world, and I love it.

How do you like to describe the Chthonic sound? I've heard black Metal, extreme metal and melodic death metal. What are some bands that influenced Chthonic members?

Slayer, Anthrax, Emperor, At The Gates, Exodus..and many other bands and many Taiwanese folk musicians. We don't like to categorize our music, but if we have to, I would say Taiwanese extreme metal.

Chthonic has been together since 1995. Have you played in Texas before? If so, how was your experience?

Yes, we have played Ozzfest 2007 in Dallas, it was hot hot hot!!!!!! Too damned hot! Btw, we enjoyed the BBQ a lot there. :D

How is this tour going? Which band are you the most excited to be touring with?

It's just started. We haven't gotten over the jet lag. Yesterday we finished one headlining show in Springfield. Although we didn't get over the jet lag and were too exhausted to energize ourselves up. But I can see the fans were very happy and satisfied and that's all we need. :D

We haven't started the shows with Satyricon and Bleeding Through, but we have listened to Bleeding Through's new album. It's awesome!

I read the band is very active in the political scene in Taiwan. Do you talk to your audiences at shows about whats going on in Taiwan with China considering you a part of them and threatening war if you give a formal declaration of independence.

No, we don't talk to the audience about it. They come for music, not for speech. But I believe that the more they like our music the more they will understand about Taiwan.

What are some of the songs about on the new album? I like that you write about your countries history and folklore instead of the usual satantic or viking lyrics usually associated with black metal.

The new album shows the whole scene of Taiwanese Hell which includes 10 courts, 18 main levels, and more than a hundred of smaller levels. It's about a story that one Taiwanese young medium sacrifice himself to fall into hell to find the Book of Life and Death to change history.

Besides the lyrics being influenced from Taiwan's history, is the music also influence by old Taiwanese music/songs? I also read you play a hena (two-string violin) on the recordings. Is it miked or is an electric version? Do you play it live? Yes, our music is strongly influenced by old Taiwanese folk songs, especially the Hena parts of melody. And we write the old Taiwanese folk melody in some guitar and keyboard'

We recorded a miked Hena. We used to have a Hena player, but he is in the military now. So, mostly we play Hena via computer on stage, but there are still some parts played by me.

Catch Chthonic live this Friday, October 2 at The Door. Show starts at 8pm. Tickets are available online for $17 or $20 at the door. The Door is located at 2513 Main St., Dallas, TX. More information available online at <http://thedorclubs.com>.

AIN'T NOTHIN' BUT A G-STRING!

I'm going to start off this week's entry with a little burlesque terminology - the terms "bump" and "grind". A "bump" is a pelvic thrust, and can be made forward or back, and accentuated with the bum. "Grind" is a circular movement made by rotating and swiveling the hips from one side to another. If you are interested in learning more about burlesque, you should check out the fall schedule of classes with Ginger Valentine Burlesque Charm School. Held at the Girls' Room in Dallas, this school teaches you to unleash your inner burly queen, as well as learn a fun new way for fitness and to kick up up your confidence! Check out more at <http://www.gingerv.com>.

If you missed the Nouvelle Burlesque Revue at the Lakewood last week, you missed quite the treat! Some of the area's best talent showed out in full force, and proved that the Dallas burlesque scene is here to stay! You can catch the winners of the competition at the Burlesque Nocturne, coming up on October 23rd, at the Lakewood Theater. This show will feature Kalani Kokonuts, the reigning Miss Exotic World, as well as Rene'a La'Roux, the Southern Belle from Hell. This show proves to be the most lavish La Divina show yet, so miss your chance at tickets! Visit <http://www.ladivinaburlesque.com> for details.

Also - what are your plan for Halloween? Got quite a few spooky treats for you!

Oct. 9th and 10th - Boolesque! with the Lollie Bombs, at the Pocket Sandwich Theater at Mockingbird Station. (214)

821-1860 for tickets, they always sell out fast!

Oct. 11th - Dr. Sketchy's HELLACIOUS Halloween session - feat. tattooed beauty Kali Ann, with burlesque performances by Zamra, Jade Pearl and Bridgette Noir. Hosted by Dr. Skotch and Vivienne Vermuth. <http://drsketchyskaliann.eventbrite.com> for tickets, profits will benefit the Feel Your Boobies Foundation!

Oct. 31st - Nomad Arts present The Wake! Spector 45, STEW!, and many other bands, as well as local burlesque beauties such as Ginger Valentine, Glam'Amour, Honey Cocoa Bordeauxx, Lady Divina, Elisa, Rose Darling, and yours truly! Check out www.thewake.dallasnomads.com for ticket info!

BARKIN' OUT LOUD

by Pat "Two Dogs" Snow

I like surprises. Most people like surprises. Just about everybody likes good surprises. And even though there's a small percentage of the population out there that likes twisted surprises, most of us don't. We got us a twisted surprise thrown at us and it ain't nothin' but ugly from top to bottom.

No, I'm not talkin' about 47 year old Herschel Walker joining the mixed martial arts fights. No one knows which of his diagnosed multiple personalities is ramroding this gig, but hey, if he/they want to get into a caged fight at the heavyweight level, geez, who are we to say no? Just because he'll be going up against some of the baddest dudes to walk this planet, who is anybody to say no?

No, the twisted surprise I'm barkin' at is ex-Texas Tech receiver Crabtree disconnecting his phone number so the 49er's teammates or organization can't contact him.

I'm not a real fan of stupid and brother this is stupid.

I'd like to say that there is some logic behind this, like maybe his leg injury was worse than we know and he's hiding behind sitting out to let it heal. But no, he was cleared over this last summer. Maybe it's something not so logical, like he's afraid to fail, or just plain afraid. But I don't think so.

No, it's nothing like that, it's just old fashioned ego and greed have collided in his head and he's surrounded himself with advisors who are feeding that idiocy.

You know, when you're a fan you get pretty relaxed to the times when the sun rises from the west or Oklahoma sells beer that's so low in alcohol you have to drink a case to get a buzz, that's because you get used to weird happening games. But this business of the NFL having teams wear these so called "throw back" uniforms is so bush league. And stupid.

The Tennessee Titans played the New York Jets and you couldn't tell it from the uniforms. What kind of idiot would have the Tennessee Titans wear the old Houston Oilers uniforms? Who knows what the Jets looked like? Who the hell cares?

This thing where the NFL, and the NBA, and MLB seem to think it's a grand way to honor their heritage by wearing some other teams clothes that no longer exist because that team no longer exists, well, you either found some guys with time on their hands, or this is another example of why you don't let women into sports.

Museum's are there for a reason: that's where you pay tribute to history and collect old uniforms, not decorate today's players.

NCAAF

Did you see the Houston Cougars defeat Texas Tech? Tech got outplayed and outcoached in that loss at Austin, and they got outplayed and outcoached this past weekend in that loss at Houston. The internal strife has reached such a point that team Captain, OL Brandon Carter, was indefinitely suspended, and on linebacker's Marlon Williams twitter account he wondered why he should be sitting in a meeting on Sunday afternoon that the head coach couldn't be on time to.

Tech head coach Leach seems to have built this legend around himself that promotes his arrogance as a type of poetic mystic which University officials, fans, and alumni have bought into.

I guess when you live in the middle of the desert and sitting under cactus is the only shade you got, then you believe the kinda junk Leach dishes out. But the players haven't always bought into it.

Whereas winning may keep mouths shut, that doesn't erase the issues from player's memory banks. Tech's now sitting 2-2 for the season and if they want any kind of chance to salvage this season they probably have to win out. The odds of that?

Out of the eight remaining games, Tech's at Nebraska and Oklahoma State, and home vs New Mexico, Kansas State, Texas A&M, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Baylor. It's no stretch they'll split these games and finish 8-8 for the season. This is great for the Longhorns and the rest of the Big 12, but it's pretty lousy for the Red Raiders.

Officiating

You got a sport, you got teams, you got rules, well then you've got to have officiating to keep things in order. In that regard referee's, umpires, linesmen, etc, ARE a part of a game. But they're there solely to assess the play and make sure the rules are followed by both sides. They're NOT there to become bigger than the game, to influence the outcome, or create a fan base by theatrics.

Ref's are going to be visible because they're making calls that one sides gonna like and the other's gonna hate. But that's completely different from being part of a scene that focus's fan's attention upon the officials.

Why is it that in the two most violent of the major sports, football and hockey, the ref's follow that credo, but in basketball and baseball they've been elevating themselves up from officiating to becoming a part of the action?

In the beginning baseball never had coaches going to the umpires, they accepted the call and went on. Somehow it's progressed to the point where coaches routinely go to umps and get into heated discussions over a call, which in 99.999999% of all cases is never overturned, and sometimes get thrown out of the game. The home plate umpires now have exaggerated motions and sounds for calling balls, strikes, and outs, some even have two or three steps away from the plate to exaggerate the calls.

And in basketball you have officials who get in the way of the action, who'll get into it with players or coaches, blah blah blah.

Football and hockey you'll get a ref go over to a coach to explain a call or situation, but it's all about the game. You'll get a coach hollering from the sidelines at officials but I've never seen one run onto the field, confront the head umpire, yell in his face for several minutes, and get tossed. I've never seen it in football or hockey and it don't need to be in baseball or basketball.

NFL

Didn't ya just love the Steelers v Bengals game? I thought it was great. The Bengals defense is coming into form, this'll be a work in progress through the season. Cedric Benson, the ex-Longhorn ex-Bears running back, has finally decided to get his head into the game. With an offensive line plus a running game, QB Carson Palmer finally has an offense to run. Does this mean they're playoff bound? In their division Cleveland's bad, but they still have the Steelers again and the Ravens twice. That's tough.

Remember the Fab Three of last year, the Ravens, Falcons, and Dolphins? All three were coming off lousy seasons, the Ravens and Falcons were starting rookie QB's (Flacco and Ryan respectively), and the Dolphins were fresh off a 1-15 year. So last year all three do well. What's happened so far?

Even before Pennington got hurt Miami's offense was dogging it. Atlanta looks dull and didn't show well against a hurting Patriots team. Flacco appears to have grown, while Baltimore's defensive leader, Ray Lewis is running the D from the field. The next three games for each will define them for the season.

Ok, let's get with it, the Cowboys hosting the Panthers.

The biggest question we face is, who fired up the Cowboys defense in the second half? The 'Boys have been playing the first three games without intensity until then. The offense still appears confused.

Here's the drill, and you can take this to the bank all day long. You CANT play top notch professional sports with anger and revenge, alls those two do is cloud a person's mind from clear thinking and execution. Enthusiastic intensity, the kind from just sheer hunger and determination, that doesn't cloud things it allows you to play with a clear mind and filled with emotion. Wade is too doggone calm, that defense needs a leader who'll get them stirred up. Garrett's offense looks like popcorn, with most of it shallow and very very few pushing the defense down field. That's weak, man.

NFL Week 4

Bye week teams: Falcons, Eagles, Cardinals, and Panthers.

Sunday noon games.

Only one really lousy game: Buc's (0-3) at Redskins (1-2, home 1-0).

I'm not sure if this one rises to mediocre: Seahawks (1-2, road 0-1) at Colts (3-0). Manning's having a ball and Seattle's without a QB, again. Mora doesn't need to be blaming losses on his kicker, he needs to figure out how to get the owner to buy a friggin' QB from someplace. Holmgren couldn't do it, maybe Mora can.

These three should have a walk in the park: Raiders (1-2, road 1-0) at Texans (1-2, home 0-2), Bengals

(2-1, road 1-0) at Browns (0-3), and Giants (3-0) at Chiefs (0-3). Houston, Cincy, and New York should improve with little effort.

This didn't start the season looking good but the Lions (1-2, road 0-1) at Bears (2-1, home 1-0) is promising to be a good matchup. Chicago takes this but it'll be way interesting to see how Stafford does against that Bears D.

Now this game hold some: Titan's (0-3, road 0-2) at Jag's (1-2, home 0-1). Yeah, only one win between them, but Tennessee's better'n what that looks, and the Jag's cylinders are all beginning to fire.

This next one you wanna have already gotten the grilling outta the way.

This game will be the early morning game of the day: Raven's (3-0, road 1-0) at Patriots (2-1, home 2-0). New England's fixin' to have that same defense that the Jet's slapped on 'em brought back to them by Baltimore. The Patriots are gonna have just as hard a time against it this time, too. If Welker's back then Brady's gonna work that offensive show, but without Wes, Tom just ain't got the weapons. This is going to be a marvel of coaching and playing to watch.

3:00 o'clock games

Send the kids to the other room: Rams (0-3) at 49er's (2-1, home 1-0). St Louis is about to learn firsthand what the definition of a jack hammer defense is.

Coin toss time: Bills (1-2, road 0-1) at Dolphins (0-3). I can't even type this one.

Not gonna be a power house game but should tell us more: Cowboys (2-1, road 1-0) at Bronco's (3-0, home 1-0). Denver's about to finally get it's first big test.

Wherever you sit this one's gonna be a nose bleeder just from watchin' all the action: Jet's (3-0, road 1-0) at Saints (3-0, home 1-0). New Orleans is finally going to go up against a hell'uva tough defense. Now, granted, the Jet's offense is still operating with a really raw QB, but they got a running game and they have some receivers. Yeah, you've had your burgers and all from round one, but you wanna surround yourself with popcorn, wings, brewski's, milk duds, chips dips, and Rumpelintz for this one.

7:00 o'clock game

This actually has some excitement built into it: Chargers (2-1, road 1-0) at Steelers (1-2, home 1-0). Pittsburgh has a chance to lick its wounds and play a home game after losing two straight on the road, and San Diego is somehow managing to play despite a truck load of injuries. If you have any beer left, make sure it's cold.

Monday Night Football

Do you believe all the hype? Do you believe either of these two teams? I believe these two teams are gonna have the amps cranked up to breaking point on this one: Packers (2-1, road 1-0) at Vikings (3-0, home 1-0). Don't let anybody try to kid you, even for a fourth game of the season Green Bay's in a must win dog fight. Favre's playing smart, and his teammates are solidly behind him. The Pack don't have the running game to control the clock in this one so they're gonna have to pass which means this game rests on Aaron Rogers shoulders. This won't end in the thriller the Vikings 49er's game did, but it's gonna have your blood boilin' just the same.

You always been saying how the Rangers need pitching not hitting, you wrong, when the season on tha line the bats gave it up. Hope you find you way couse you one lost man out there.

*Kalem

Kalem:

Hey, slick, in general it's easier to out pitch a great batter than it is to out hit a great pitcher. You can pitch around a great batter, you know, like walk him, but just what are you gonna do against a great pitcher? You can try to get into a duel with him and force fouls until you walk or get a base hit, but out of ALL the teams in the majors you got only Ichiro Suzuki with the Mariner's who can pull that one off consistently. Pujols with the Cardinals is a banger, but even he's not as consistent as Ichiro. Yeah the Rangers bat's dropped off at the end, but it was the pitching that got 'em this far.

I know you don't like women's sports but if you had to watch them what would you pick? By the way, I think you do a great disservice to all the women athletes out there with your antiquated male chauvinistic attitude. Maybe if you appreciated what women had to offer you'd be an even more well rounded sports writer.

*Marianne

Marianne:

I actually watch a woman's sport by choice: motocross racing, they do an excellent job and it's exciting. The women's professional basketball circuit is near collapse, it just doesn't have the appeal. And the LPGA, they're losing sponsors left and right. People have gotten advertisers and sponsors to pony up some very big bucks to promote women's professional sports and the general public just doesn't back them enough. Advertisers and media will push anything there's enough interest in, so the question, darlin', ain't my appreciation, it's: why don't more women attend and make noise about female sports? Answer: girls wanna go where the guys and the excitement are. The gals can do a lot of things to attract guys, so why can't they make their sports that way, too? Answer: I guarantee, you fill a stadium or arena with women it wouldn't take long before it starts bringing guys, then media, then advertisers. Maybe, just maybe, the larger amounts of gals simply aren't interested in it.

Honda Showcases U3-X Electric Unicycle

Toyota isn't the only Japanese automaker to amaze us with some funky forms of personal transportation. Honda unwrapped its U3-X transporter yesterday, which can best be described as a motorized unicycle.

A key component to the U3-X is Honda's Omni Traction (HOT) drive technology. The large wheel you see at the bottom of the cycle is actually made of multiple wheels of varying diameter. The larger wheels allow the U3-X to move fore and aft. Simultaneously rotating the smaller wheels allows the U3-X to steer. Like a Segway, the unicycle is self-balancing; Honda engineers developed the system based upon technologies developed for the company's ASIMO robot program.

Although the U3-X seems to be meant for indoor use only, it weighs only 20 pounds and folds into a portable shape for transit. Power comes from a lithium-ion battery pack which, when fully charged, offers approximately an hour's worth of use.

2011 Reva NXG: Like A Smart Car, But Electric

The fully-electric 2011 Reva NXG tops out at 80 MPH, can travel 125 miles between charges and seats two beneath a removable targa top. The NXG was designed by Dilip Chabria of DC Design, who also worked on the Aston Martin Vanquish, the Rolls-Royce Coupe concept and even a two-door Porsche Cayenne.

The NXG will also preview a mysterious new feature known as "REvive," which enables owners to call or text for an emergency "recharge" should they run out of juice. Since the last time we checked, electricity couldn't be transmitted wirelessly over cell phone signals, so we're guessing control centers can remotely enable vehicles to access a reserve charge level that shouldn't be used too often for fear of shortening the battery's service life.

Bad Driver! Yellow Cards For You

Ever wish there was a referee standing by with a whistle to rule on everyday minor traffic infractions? Someone to halt the flow of traffic for a moment to signal out a 'dangerous play'? Slap a few of these magnetic cards on your motorcycle's gas tank and the next time some SUV-driving, cellphone-talking yahoo cuts you off without the slightest hint of consideration, you can toss one of these cards onto their rear panel. Shake off the frustration a little easier, knowing that your point has been made, and that you've substituted the conventional flip-of-the-bird for something with a little more substance. If this fails causing you to go red on their ass, well then they can't say you didn't warn them. 2" x 3.5". Pack of Ten

YELLOW CARD

This magnet was tossed onto your car by a motorcyclist who felt that you might have been driving in a way that could have endangered their life.

They chose to toss this magnetic note because it can neither damage your automobile, nor affect itself to rubber or glass and therefore will not affect your driving. It serves to warn you.

With thoughtful contemplation and reverence for humanity, we can adjust our behavior to allow for all people to live life.

This is a yellow card, let's please not let things get to Red.

Dita Von Teese Shows Why She's The Queen Of Burlesque As She Models Her Latest Wonderbra Collection

Dita Von Teese poses in a seductive two-piece as she looks into the mirror and applies lashing of red lipstick.

The sultry picture is one of many the queen of burlesque poses in to show off her latest lingerie collection for Wonderbra.

The voluptuous 36-year-old's Sparkle Teese line is inspired by her sensual retro-glamour and features sequin-studded tulle, retro flounces and detachable ruby-red pom-poms to place wherever you want.

Dita signed up with Wonderbra in 2008 and launched her first range for the company in September of that year.

And, like the star, much of the lingerie harks back to the 1940s and 50s, and is based on her very own designs.

The latest line features five styles and also includes the Multi Teese Party Edition bra and thong set, with elegant velvet straps, bow detail and sequins.

Other items intended to inspire customers to get into the party mood include a vintage-style red and black high suspender belt, black lace bra and knicker set, and a red and black cleavage-enhancing bra with lace detail and a ribbon bow.

Last year Dita revealed that becoming the face of Wonderbra was a dream come true.

'I've always wanted to do something with lingerie and it was important for the finished product to be something I would wear myself,' she said.

Dita filed for divorce from her ex-husband, shock rocker Marilyn Manson, in 2007, citing 'irreconcilable differences'.

She later explained that she could no longer put up with his partying, and involvement with another woman.

'I wasn't supportive of his partying or his relationship with another girl. As much as I loved him I wasn't going to be part of that,' she said.

SEX IN THE NEWS

Why Women Have Sex: To Relieve Boredom, Win Favours Or To Stop A Headache

For every woman expecting the earth to move, it would seem there are two with more practical motives. From relieving boredom, to keeping the peace in a relationship or even curing a headache, the reasons for succumbing to the advances of the opposite sex are many and varied. Romance and passion, it has to be said, comes rather low down the list, according to a new book.

Cindy Meston and David Buss, authors of Why Women Have Sex, highlight 200 specific reasons.

'Research has shown that most men find most women at least somewhat sexually attractive, whereas most women do not find most men sexually attractive at all,' conclude the authors, both psychology professors at the University of Texas.

Having apparently discounted physical attraction, the 1,000 women interviewed by Prof Meston gave a huge range of reasons for sleeping with a man.

One said she did it for a spiritual experience, proclaiming: 'It's the closest thing to God.'

Other reasons included: 'he bought me a nice dinner', 'he spent a lot of money on me early on' and 'he showed me he had an extravagant lifestyle'. And rather than love or romance, for many women sex is just about fun.

Six in ten university students in one survey said they regularly slept with a male friend who was not their boyfriend.

One, who was at a different college from her boyfriend, explained it was because 'life is too damn short to be waiting four years to have sex again'.

Others confessed they did it to improve their sexual performance, with one explaining: 'I have had sex with my boyfriend to make my sexual skills better.'

Chantelle Will Have Sex With You

According to statistics, if there is a girl in your office named Chantelle and you ask her out for drinks, she will let you put your penis in her.

In Britain, 4,000 people were asked what name would be the mostly likely to engage on first date or casual sex. Chantelle was the ... uh, winner?

Women were also asked what would be the name of a chap that would most likely try to get for it on the first date. The answer: Dave.

Chantelle's of the World: You've been warned. If you become more popular at your local watering hole it isn't because of a new hairdo or your expensive designer jeans. It's because of statistics.

The other names rounding out the Top 10 of Promiscuity are Stacy, Kelly, Chelsea, Tanya, Debbie, Becky, Vicky, Lisa and Michelle.

The 9 other names of guys that are going to try to slip one past the goalie are Lee, Steve, Darren, Andy, Gary, Danny, Jason, Kevin and Callum.

In a separate study, men named Johnny were found to be "charming, funny, intelligent, loved by children and small animals, a troubadour, raconteur, rock and roll historian, cool, the bee's knee's, the cat's pajamas and the mutt's nuts."

Fire Dept Cuts Dumbbell Collar Off Dumb Man's Penis

File this under: Worst. Cocking. Ever. We've been trying to figure out whether or not the guy in this story merits a Darwin Award. On the one hand, he didn't wind up killing himself, which is the usual criteria for "winning" a Darwin; on the other, he may have removed all possibility of reproduction, which is just as good in the long run. It seems that the Hoag Memorial Hospital in Newport Beach, California, had to call in a Search and Rescue squad from the local fire department to cut through a steel dumbbell collar—the thing you put on the end of the bar to keep the weights from sliding off—that had been stuck on a man's penis for two to three days. By the time he got to the hospital, the man's penis had blackened and swelled to five times its normal size.

Most incredibly, the man at first refused to have the ring removed, saying cryptically, "This will make me the chief of my tribe." He apparently believed that the weight from the steel collar would make his penis longer. Instead, it blocked the flow of the blood out of his penis so that it swelled so large he couldn't take the collar off. It took two hours of careful sawing through the ring for firefighters to cut through the inch of steel. A watering system had to be constructed so that sparks from the blade didn't fly across the room as it cut through the one-inch steel ring. Costa Mesa Battalion Chief Scott Broussard said that the operation proved the skill of the city firefighters' skills: "If we're cutting people out of some kind of building, or if we're cutting right up next to somebody's flesh and don't damage his flesh, then it's a good day," he said. No word yet on the patient's condition, or his chances for adding to the gene pool. If nothing else, he at least deserves an honorable mention in the next round of Darwins.

Ratner Puts Personal Paraplegic Sex Encounter Into New Film

Moviemaker Brett Ratner lost his virginity to a paraplegic dangling from a tree - and now he has turned the sexual encounter into a scene in his latest film.

The Rush Hour director reveals his odd short, as part of new movie New York I Love You, is based on a real episode during his youth in Miami, Florida.

But he had to tone down the sex scene in the movie - because producers couldn't stomach the idea of his lead actor, Anton Yelchin, making love to a tied-up paraplegic woman.

Ratner explains, "It's probably my most personal film. When I sent the original script, which is autobiographical, the producers would not let me film it because, in the original ending, she (the girl) is a cripple, and they have sex as she's hanging from a tree in Central Park.

"Everyone was freaking out over my short, so I changed it to where she wasn't a cripple, but an actress pretending to be a cripple."

In the disturbing scene, the girl, played by Olivia Thirlby, insists Ratner's character (Yelchin) makes love to her, while she is suspended from a tree.

City Advertises Porn On Website By Accident

Authorities in the western German city of Gelsenkirchen accidentally advertised porn among the services on offer for residents on its website.

"It was a mistake," said a spokesman for the city authorities Tuesday. "There was never any intention of the city providing pornography as a service."

The administrative error arose when an employee compiling the list thought that brothel owners might type "porn" into the search box to find out about the city's sex tax, he added.

The city has now removed the word from the list.

UK Kid Sees Porn In Apple Store, Mom Freaks

A mom is furious after her ten-year-old girl was exposed to pornographic images after picking up an iPod in a shop at Lakeside.

Helen Goodman, 37, said her daughter, Eleanor, was left shocked after innocently looking at an iPod Touch on display at the Apple store.

Mrs Goodman said:

"She picked up one of the demo models and it was playing pornographic material.

"I called to complain, and was told matter of factly by staff this happens a lot as people come in and download it for a laugh.

"I don't find it funny and all my friends think it's disgusting, but Apple say there is nothing they can do to stop it."

Mrs Goodman, of Edmund Drive, Chafford Hundred, has warned other parents.

She said: "If they can't guarantee 100 per cent internet safety for the kids visiting the store, I feel they should not be allowed to offer internet access to the public without supervision."

Texas Woman Charged With Stealing Porn from a Dead Man

A Texas woman has been charged with felony theft from a corpse after admitting to police that she stole pornography and coins from the dead man's apartment while the body was in it. Her macabre excuse was that the porn really belonged to her.

Linda Dynell Rushing, 43, faces two years in jail for theft from a corpse, a felony in Texas.

Rushing told police that she had known the deceased man, Samuel Stewart, 51, for about three months, and had stayed at his apartment several times. She said she found him unconscious and covered in vomit on the porch of his apartment building on July 26, and moved him inside his apartment with the help of some neighbors.

According to an affidavit, neighbors found Stewart's body the following day, inside the apartment in the same spot where he had been left the previous day. When police arrived, they found his wallet next to the body with its content scattered on the floor.

Police questioned Rushing, who at first denied that she had taken anything. According to kxan.com, investigators questioned her again in early September, when she admitted that she had taken some coins and pornography but that she was merely reclaiming the porn, which she had previously sold to Stewart for $20 but for which she had not been paid.

Ass Toys & No Boys 2 Adam & Eve

Fans of girl on girl action, here's another winner for you. You get nine scenes of some really hot ladies showing why they don't need any boys to get them off. All these ladies need are some lips, fingers, toys and a willing partner to play with.

My favorite scene is with Kylie Ireland and Roxy Deville from Bitch & Moan 2. A brunette and a red head getting naughty is almost as good as having a threesome with them.

The threeway bondage scene with Julie Night, Sophia and Samantha Rxxx from Bitch & Moan was quite the cock tease and I'm saying that because I'm at work. I'll be enjoying this scene again later. If you like threeway all girl scenes, then there a few more on this disc to get your heart pumping.

I think alot of you guys are really goona like the scene with the two gorgeous blonde bombshells, Aline and Phoenix Marie, from Tits N Ass. I'm not much into blondes, but I do like butts and you get some nice juicy ones here and some yummy looking melons. I give this 4 out 5 and I'm usually not into all girl releases. -Gil Tha Thrill

IT'S HARD TO FIND A GOOD DONKEY SHOW

The Weekly Adventures Of OJ Tobias

"WHAT THE FK?" I screamed into Bill's ear as he slept quietly with some bimbo that had poor taste in dudes.

Instead of responding like a civilized person, he started screaming like the bimbo in the bed next to him, "OJ, WHAT THE FK?" He repeated my question. At this point I felt he was really trying to piss me off.

"DON'T TRY THAT FKING CHIROPRACTOR SHIT WITH ME!" I wanted Bill to realize that he was not going to sweet talk me like in the past. "WHAT THE FK? YOU ARE ONE SORRY MOTHERFKER!"

"GET THE FK OUT OF MY HOUSE. WHAT THE FK? GET THE FK OUT! I DON'T HAVE TIME FOR YOUR CRAZY SHIT!" Bill was pulling on his pants and going to his gun safe. I really should have been more concerned at this point. But I was still pissed off at Bill. What kind of sorry fk gets married with out my blessing?

"Oj." Bill had stopped yelling, which I took as a good sign as he concentrated on the combination of the safe. "I have dreamt of the moment you would be stupid enough to break in to my house."

"Bill, I didn't break in. Your upstairs window was open. I just backed my truck up to your house. I ain't no burglar." Well, that he can prove. "I am upset you did not even invite me to the wedding. I thought we were best friends..."

"What the fk are you talking about?" He turned around. "There are so many fking things wrong with what you just said. You don't even know my real name, Dickhead."

"What the fk, Bill?" I guess he was quizzing me, but I decided to turn it around. "Don't quiz me. I am turning this shit around. What's my name, since your Mr. Know Everything...?"

Bill sighed and leaning against the safe. "If I tell you, will you leave and promise never to see me in person again?" Bill didn't have a chance. I would forget all about this shit in the morning anyway, so it was a win/win for me.

"You have my word."

"You are Oj Tobias, aka Ojizzle, aka Dj Choke a Ho, aka The Juiceman, aka King Ding-A-Ling, aka O to the J, aka Omar, unless you came up with some other dumbass name to call yourself this week." Damn, Bill had really been editing my column. I thought he just threw that shit on the printer when I wrote it. But he was right, I had a new alias. But considering he just got married I did not want to ruin his good time with the bar skank while his wife was away.

"Okay, you win!" I got up and left. I figured he would find out my new alias as soon as his credit card bill came in. Being Bill Russell has really opened doors for me. I wonder if Ali knows what Bill looks like. Maybe I could impersonate him and start editing the paper. I am going to do just that.

J BLAKE'S Joke of the week

A man and his wife go to their honeymoon hotel for their 25th anniversary. As the couple reflected on that magical evening 25 years ago, the wife asked the husband, "When you first saw my naked body in front of you, what was going through your mind?" The husband replied, "All I wanted to do was to fk your brains out, and suck your tits dry." Then, as the wife undressed, she asked, "What are you thinking now?" He replied, "It looks as if I did a pretty good job!"

Powerball Winner Uses Money to Fund Bikini Wrestling Show

The word hero is tossed around a lot these days, but there's no other way to describe Jay Vargas, a 21-one-year-old Powerball winner who's using his money to fund a bikini wrestling show.

Vargas, who at 19 became the youngest Powerball winner ever, has put part of his $17 million payout toward the development of "Wrestlicious," which features professional wrestling, sketch comedy and lots of scantily clad babes.

When Vargas won the lottery two years ago, he pledged to spend his money wisely. "I didn't have the temptation to go out and buy 15 cars or 50 houses, or a big mansion with 50-plus rooms," Vargas said. "I just want to be comfortable."

So this young entrepreneur packed up and moved from South Carolina to Tampa, Fla., the home of many professional wrestlers, to make his bikini-wrestling TV show dreams come true. In this age of corporate greed, it's refreshing to see a rich guy who wants to give back.

A pilot episode hosted by Jimmy "Mouth of the South" Hart has been shot and producers are currently looking for a network to pick up the program. How can any network executive resist this promo?

Will This Breathing Sex Doll Eliminate The Need for Girlfriends?

Behold, "Andy," the new Android sex doll that will eliminate the female species and, more importantly, the need to return sexual favors. Just kidding, but this is undoubtedly a giant leap forward for the awesome, disturbing and ultimately victorious robot takeover, just like "Terminator 2" foretold.

The unfortunately-named Andy (couldn't they have at least spelled it with an "i"?), is adjustable, allowing for all sorts of sexual positions, plus it comes equipped with a "heavy breathing" feature, a g-spot that you might one day locate, and a variety of lifelike features. The dolls are referred to as "synthetic humans" by their manufacturer, First Androids, and retail in the neighborhood of 2600 Euros ($3820).

Some female writers warn guys that the dolls can't converse, have a social life of her own that doesn't involve you or "reject douchebags." In other news, First Androids just received four million new orders for the doll. Now, if we could just settle the debate on whether it counts as cheating have sex with robot hookers.

Did I Ever Tell You The One About... And other strange oddities of the world

Naked Man Riding Motorcycle Charged With DUI

Authorities say a Florida man was charged with driving under the influence after he was spotted riding his motorcycle naked. The Marion County deputy was driving on Interstate 75 early Tuesday when he spotted what appeared to be a naked man on a motorcycle. The deputy caught up with 45-year-old J. Dante Krauss at a red light and stopped him.

Capt. Mike Rolls said Krauss could not explain where he was coming from or why he was naked. Rolls said the deputy asked him if he had been drinking, and he answered that he had. Breathalyzer tests revealed blood alcohol levels above .08, the state's legal limit to drive.

Krauss was charged with what Rolls said turned out to be his fifth DUI.

NC Doctor Removes Plastic Fragment Lodged In Lung

Doctors say a North Carolina man who was plagued with coughing fits should be OK now that they have removed a 1-inch piece of plastic from his lung, where it had rested since he apparently inhaled it nearly two years ago while sucking down a soft drink at a Wendy's restaurant.

Doctors at Duke University Medical Center say the plastic fragment of an eating utensil — with the Wendy's logo still legible on the side — was likely to blame for the coughing, fatigue and pneumonia spells that plagued John Manley for almost two years.

They pulled the fast-food foreign object from Manley's left lung during a Sept. 10 surgery. The 50-year-old Wilmington resident said he probably inhaled it while gulping a drink from Wendy's.

Beijing Chocolate Theme Park To Open Next Year

China plans to cater to the country's rising number of chocoholics with the opening next year of a Willy Wonka-style theme park in Beijing, complete with a replica Great Wall, state media said Thursday.

The 'world chocolate dream park', reminiscent of Roald Dahl's beloved book "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory", will feature a life-size edible Terracotta Army, Great Wall and versions of famous paintings, the China Daily said.

"Our 'chocolate wonderland' will be beyond the imagination," Tina Cheng, general manager of the company that will operate the park, was quoted as saying.

Naked Gun: 91-Year-Old Nude Fla. Man Makes Arrest

Authorities say a 91-year-old South Florida man jumped out of bed naked and held an intruder at gunpoint until deputies arrived.

The Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office said Robert E. Thompson woke up Saturday morning after a would-be burglar climbed his backyard fence and was met by his charging dog, Rett, a Rottweiler and Doberman pinscher mix. Thompson heard the commotion, grabbed his .38-caliber revolver and phoned police without ever getting dressed.

Deputies say Thompson fired a warning shot as 26-year-old Jose Pasqual started to come toward him. Thompson kept his gun trained on Pasqual until deputies arrived.

No Curvy Mannequins In Shop Windows

Iranian police warned shopkeepers Tuesday not to use mannequins without headscarves or which exposed body curves, official news agency IRNA reported.

"Using unusual mannequins exposing the body curves and with the heads without Hijabs (Muslim veil) are prohibited to be used in the shops," Iran's moral security police in charge of Islamic dress codes said in a statement carried by IRNA.

Iranian police have stepped up a crackdown on both women and men, boutiques and small companies which fail to enforce strict religious dress codes since President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad came to office in 2005.

Italian Police Seize Mafia Boss' Pet Crocodile

Here's another of the Mafia's trademark offers—you can't refuse: pay or be eaten by a crocodile.

Italy's anti-Mafia police unit said Wednesday it has seized a crocodile used by an alleged Naples mob boss to intimidate local businessmen from whom he demanded protection money.

Officers searching for weapons in the man's home outside the southern Italian city last week found the crocodile living on his terrace, said police official Sergio Di Mauro.

The crocodile, weighing 40 kilograms (88 pounds) and 1.7 meters (5.6 feet) long, was fed a diet of live rabbits and mice, Di Mauro said.

He said the suspect, an alleged boss in the Naples-based Camorra crime syndicate, used to invite extortion victims to his home and threaten to set the animal on them if they didn't pay or grant him favors.

The man was not arrested but placed under investigation for illegal possession of an animal, Di Mauro said. Investigators are also working on extortion charges against him.

TV's 'Newlywed Game' Features First Gay Couple

Even as states and jurisdictions made gay and lesbian marriages legal, "The Newlywed Game" has played it straight — until now.

The long-running game show, now on the GSN cable network, said Wednesday it will feature its first gay couple this season on a celebrity edition. George Takei, who played Mr. Sulu on "Star Trek," will appear with his partner, Brad Altman.

They just celebrated their first anniversary after being married in Los Angeles last September, but they're nothing like the giggly young couples the game is known for. Takei and Altman have been together for 22 years.

"What we want is to display the normality and the joy of having a happy union," Takei said.

Takei and Altman haven't taped their episode yet but expect to do so soon. GSN hopes to air in October.

New UN President Says Being Gay 'Not Acceptable'

The new president of the United Nations has called being gay "not acceptable." Ali Abdussalam Treki, of Libya, opened the 64th session of the United Nations General Assembly Friday with a press conference where he answered questions on a variety of topics.

When asked about a UN resolution that calls for the universal decriminalization of being gay, Treki called the matter "very sensitive."

"[T]hat matter is very sensitive, very touchy," Treki said. "As a Muslim, I am not in favor of it ... it is not accepted by the majority of countries. My opinion is not in favor of this matter at all. I think it's not really acceptable by our religion, our tradition"

"It is not acceptable in the majority of the world. And there are some countries that allow that, thinking it is a kind of democracy ... I think it is not," he added.

The resolution eventually was approved during last year's session but proved controversial. President Obama reversed course on the issue and backed the resolution. But Vatican officials denounced it, saying it might promote gay marriage.

The resolution, sponsored by France and the Netherlands, met with strong resistance from a group of Arab leaders who challenged it with a statement condemning being gay. The anti-gay resolution failed but attracted 60 signatures on its first day. The Arab-backed statement decried the decriminalization of being gay because it might lead to "the social normalization, and possibly the legitimization, of many deplorable acts including pedophilia."

HBO To Air Gay Outing Doc

HBO will broadcast director Kirby Dick's controversial documentary on the outing of gay and lesbian politicians on October 5.

Outrage looks at the lives of gay politicians — past and present — who remain deep in the closet and actively support an anti-gay agenda and the damage they have inflicted on the gay and lesbian community.

The movie created controversy with the outing of Florida Governor Charlie Crist. Rumors that Crist is gay have long swirled in gay political circles. Crist might have hoped that his 2008 marriage to Carole Rome would have put those rumors to bed. Instead, the gossip turned cynical as muckrakers dismissed the marriage as a sham and little more than conservative window dressing to help secure a spot on the 2008 Republican presidential ticket.

Crist is currently campaigning to become Florida's next senator in 2010.

Producers of the film call it: "[A] searing indictment of the hypocrisy of closeted politicians who actively campaign against the LGBT community they covertly belong to. Boldly revealing the hidden lives of some of the United States' most powerful policymakers, Outrage takes a comprehensive look at the harm they've inflicted [by] keeping their secrets."

Scotland Yard Advertises For 'Gay, Lesbian Or Transgender' Bodyguards For The Queen

You must be a hotshot with a weapon, have a nose for hidden danger and the ability to melt into the background. But that's not all you need to join the latest intake of the elite royal protection squad guarding the Queen. It also helps if you're lesbian, gay or transgender.

On Tuesday the Metropolitan Police posted an advertisement inviting 'special groups' to apply to protect the Royal Family at Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle and Balmoral.

Police chiefs ordered the recruitment drive amid concerns that there are not enough officers from minority groups guarding the Queen. But critics accused the Met of bowing to political correctness.

The advertisement from Scotland Yard's Royalty Protection Branch, known as SO14, invites armed officers from all backgrounds to apply for the role to 'deliver residential protection through a combination of fixed posts and mobile patrols'.

The recruitment notice, which was posted internally within the Met, reads: 'Successful officers can expect to work at London palaces or Windsor Castle and officers are required to perform tours of duty in Scotland.'

'Applications are particularly welcomed from women, lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and black and minority ethnic communities/people as these are under-represented within SO14.' Successful candidates must be trained in firearms and will be expected to work 12-hour shifts.

Monkeys Prefer Heavy Metal Music

Researchers played a group of cotton-top tamarin monkeys a variety of musical types, such as jazz and classical, and found that they only reacted when they heard the loud, fast-paced sounds of a band like Metallica. Instead of banging their heads, however, the heavy metal made the simians appear calm and content.

While the researchers were also able to coax reactions from the cotton-tops when they played them a special composition of cello music and monkey calls, in some cases this would just agitate the apes.

This discovery actually raises our assessment of the typical heavy metal fan's level of sophistication.

CONDOMANIA® FIT KIT™

MEASURE LENGTH

Please be careful when using this Fit Kit. Watch out for paper cuts! User assumes all risk of bodily injury associated with usage.

PLACE UNDER ERECTION ONLY DOWN AS FAR AS CONDOM WOULD UNROLL. Measurement begins at this line, cut before using.

Fact: The FDA doesn't allow very large or very small condoms. Magnum XLs are only slightly bigger than normal. In Europe, however, they are soon going to get them in 70 different sizes. Are you a J33 or a G22?

Believe it or not, using a condom that is not suited for your penis increases the possibilities of breakage and slippage, which in turn increases the possibility of sexually transmitted infections, or unwanted pregnancies. Even while they know this—as have been discovered in various studies—the FDA doesn't allow for condoms that are longer, shorter, thinner, or thicker than the average. That's bad—not to mention effing annoying.

In Europe, however, men will be able to print out this measuring tool, and order exactly the size they need. Hopefully, someone will bring these TheyFit condoms to the US. For now, however, all you can do is print and play.

Bed Sharing 'Bad For Your Health'

Couples should consider sleeping apart for the good of their health and relationship, say experts.

perfectly well, then don't change, but don't be afraid to do something different.

Sleep specialist Dr Neil Stanley told the British Science Festival how bed sharing can cause rows over snoring and duvet-hogging and robs precious sleep.

One study found that, on average, couples suffered 50% more sleep disturbances if they shared a bed.

"We all know what it's like to have a cuddle and then say 'I'm going to sleep now' and go to the opposite side of the bed. So why not just toddle off down the landing?"

He said poor sleep was linked to depression, heart disease, strokes, lung disorders, traffic and industrial accidents, and divorce, yet sleep was largely ignored as an important aspect of health.

Dr Stanley, who sleeps separately from his wife, points out that historically we were never meant to share our beds.

He said the modern tradition of the marital bed only began with the industrial revolution, when people moving to overcrowded towns and cities found themselves short of living space.

Before the Victorian era it was not uncommon for married couples to sleep apart. In ancient Rome, the marital bed was a place for sexual congress but not for sleeping.

Dr Stanley, who set up one of Britain's leading sleep laboratories at the University of Surrey, said the people of today should consider doing the same.

"It's about what makes you happy. If you've been sleeping together and you both sleep

Dr Robert Meadows, a sociologist at the University of Surrey, said: "People actually feel that they sleep better when they are with a partner but the evidence suggests otherwise."

He carried out a study to compare how well couples slept when they shared a bed versus sleeping separately.

Based on 40 couples, he found that when couples share a bed and one of them moves in his or her sleep, there is a 50% chance that their slumbering partner will be disturbed as a result.

Despite this, couples are reluctant to sleep apart, with only 8% of those in their 40s and 50s sleeping in separate rooms, the British Science Festival heard.

Green Dildo Promises Earth-Friendly Orgasms

The makers of a new marital aid that has gone on sale in Sweden have said that their dildo is the most environmentally-friendly on the market.

Made from recycled plastic and metal, "Earth Angel" is charged by turning the specially adapted key in its base. Four minutes of hand-turning is said to give 30 minutes of intense vibrations - saving money on new batteries.

And the good news for environmentalists is that "Earth Angel" has now reached Sweden.

Anna Sundström at erotic store Afrodites Apotek in Stockholm believes that it will be a big hit. "Many of our customers are environmentally conscious and often say 'no' to a plastic bag. It saves the environment when you don't use batteries," she said to Expressen.

The only downside to the Irish-made sex toy is the price tag. At 1,050 kronor ($153), it costs twice as much as a normal dildo. But, as it's self-charging, there's no need to buy expensive replacement batteries.

Study Says Drunk Sex Preferred by 50 Percent of Ladies

Remember that dude you slept with last night? No? Perhaps you're among the six percent of women who have never had sex sober, according to new research.

The study, which was conducted by "female hygiene" company FemFresh (EEK), questioned 3,000 British women and came up with some surprising results: about 50 percent of women preferred sex under the influence. In addition, 75 percent of women who are partnered off said they prefer to have a glass of wine or two before hitting the sack with their significant other. (Makes things more interesting, we guess.)

The study also found that, the average woman has slept with eight men, and was drunk during sex with at least five of them.

The researchers say it's a troublesome sign that points to a significant lack of self-esteem in women. How much of the sex has happened on awkward first dates after those ice-breaking margaritas worked their evil Mexi-magic?

Nicole Kidman Moves Ahead With The Transsexual Love Story "The Danish Girl"

Remember when Nicole Kidman and Charlize Theron were going to play a couple in a movie about the world's first post-op male-to-female transsexual?

Well, it's still half true. While Charlize has dropped out, Nicole is pushing ahead as star and producer of The Danish Girl.

The project has added director Tomas Alfredson, the man behind last year's acclaimed Swedish vampire movie Let the Right One In. The Danish Girl is based on a book by the same name about Danish painter Einar Wegener (played by Nicole), who in 1931 became the first person to go through a successful sex-change operation to become a woman, Lili Elbe.

Charlize was originally slated to play Einar/Lili's wife Gerda Wegener, but has since left the production. They married when Einar was 22 and Gerda 17. Gerda was an accomplished Danish artist who frequently used Lili as the subject in her work. Her paintings and illustrations of beautiful women often featured lesbian overtones and erotic imagery.

Director Alfredson told Daily Variety, "We have been in talks for close to a year, and we are soon going into production." IMDB.com has the film slated for a 2010 release.

Thailand Ladyboy Amy

Http://Shemale.asia presents the fabulously famous Amy in a free teaser gallery with some new photos of this hot Thai performer. While I'm not sure if I like the 'tunnel of love' quote on the gallery page, it's quite indisputable that sexy Amy is really a fabulous tgirl with divine features. It doesn't matter at which part of her body you are looking, she's dam near perfect everywhere, the legs, the tits, her ass, oh well, and not to forget that stiff pecker she's rubbing out in this picture series.

Orgy with Four Dominant Shemales

The transsex domination site Shemale Punishers seems to specialise on group sex scenes with a whole bunch of shemale dommes abusing one guy. I have posted some photos from them before, and if I remember correctly, back then five mistresses were having fun with their single male slave boy. This time there are "only" four dominas involved that give their victim a hard time with ropes, whips and high heels, before they proceed with the obligatory assfucking. If that sounds like your kind of ball game, then check out the new pictures from Shemale Punisher.
